

2022 Clean School Bus (CSB) Waitlist

EPA received around 2,000 applications requesting nearly $4 billion in funding for the 2022 Clean School Bus (CSB) Rebates. In response to this overwhelming demand, EPA almost doubled the funding level from $500 million to $965 million. Even with that increase, EPA can only fund a portion of applicants in this first funding opportunity of the Clean School Bus Program.

The list below displays the applicants for EPA’s 2022 CSB Rebates that were not selected for funding in the initial lottery process. If any 2022 CSB Rebate selectees are deemed ineligible, drop out of the program, or otherwise reduce their funding request, then EPA will offer their leftover funds to previously unselected applicants; provided sufficient time remains in the project period. This waitlist does not include applicants that dropped out or were deemed ineligible. It also does not include a small number of applicants that were selected for funds but are currently resolving issues identified in the application review process.

Section 6 of the 2022 CSB Program Guide details the selection process, including the geographic preference for at least one selectee per state/territory and the different pools of funding. EPA will continue to follow this selection process if leftover funds become available. This means that the identity of the next applicant in line for funds is dependent on the step in the selection process those funds were originally allocated under. For example, if an applicant was picked in step 1 of the selection process because they were the first applicant in the lottery from Nevada requesting funds for exclusively zero emission (ZE) buses, but they later drop out of the program, their leftover funds would first be offered to the next Nevada applicant in the lottery that is requesting exclusively ZE buses. Because the identity of the next applicant in line for funds is dependent on the source of those funds, we are not providing a simple ordered waitlist and, instead, have placed applicants not selected for funds in alphabetical order by state and then school district name.

Please note, dropouts are not common, so we do not recommend that fleets in this waitlist adjust their normal bus procurement schedule in the hope of being selected. Applicants not selected for funding this round can look forward to future annual CSB funding opportunities, including both grants and rebates. These future CSB funding opportunities will require new application submissions and will not be selected off this waitlist. More details will be announced on our website and via our email list that you can sign up for using the link near the bottom of that site.
